Dear Einstein Colleagues:

We are excited to announce an important update to our Learning Management System (LMS), which will temporarily impact your access to online learning content and class registration.

Starting Thursday, April 25th at 5pm EST and lasting approximately 10 days, you cannot access the LMS to complete online courses or sign up for new courses. This system update will bring positive benefits. After this brief period, you will be provided a new LMS link that can be used to access the system via single sign on, no separate username or password needed. This update will also allow us to share class links between users and make class registration easier for all.

In preparation for the service interruption – please register for any required courses and complete any in-progress training content prior to Thursday, April 25th at 5pm EST. Courses that are not completed will not be saved, however any existing registrations will be transferred.

If you have any questions about the LMS blackout period, please reach out to Vanessa Claris at vanessa.claris@einsteinmed.edu.

Sincerely,
Yvonne M. Ramirez
Vice President, Human Resources & Title IX Coordinator
